Extends a Great Ovation to Redmond, McHugh and O'Donnell.

Message They Brought Stirs the Hearts of the Sons of Erin.

Six Thousand Gather in Commemoration of Manchester Martyrs.

HOPE OF FREEDOM WAS VOICED

Irish eloquence and Irish patriotism echoed from the stage of the Auditorium Sunday night and stirred the souls of thousands who had gathered to hear the message brought by the United League envoys, John E. Redmond, Patrick A. McHugh and Thomas O'Donnell, on the occasion of the celebration of the anniversary of the death of the Manchester martyrs, Allen, Larkin and O'Leary, at Chicago. It is seldom that men receive the welcome accorded these Irish patriots. Every seat in the Auditorium was filled, and for hours tremendous cheers rose at frequent intervals from the 6,000 throats that voiced approval of sentiments in favor of free Ireland, says the Record-Herald.

The oration of the evening was delivered by Mr. Redmond, the staunch admirer of Parnell, and now recognized leader of the United Irish party. He related bits of the past history of his native country, told of its national pride, of its oppression and of its ambition and hopes. He cheered his listeners by telling them that Ireland is now united, and awakened their unbounded enthusiasm by declaring that the people were never so near the realization of their fond hopes as now.

Following Mr. Redmond came young Thomas O'Donnell with an energetic account of what is being accomplished in the British Parliament by the young and determined members like himself, who have been sent there to represent Ireland's interests. In the Gaelic language he, too, spoke of Ireland's aspirations and the progress which is being made toward their realization. Patrick McHugh, who has so long held the confidence of the Irish people, closed the meeting with a characteristically fiery speech.

The meeting was presided over by Col. John Finerty, head of the local branch of the United Irish League. On the platform were the officers of the Second Regiment, Illinois National Guard, officers of the Clan-na-Gael Guards in full regiments and many prominent Irish citizens of the city.

In opening the meeting Col. Finerty announced that the gathering was to welcome the accredited envoys of a united Irish nation and to celebrate Ireland's unconquerable nationality. Then he quoted the words of Sir Francis Moore: "In this, our island, England shall never, never rest."

Senator Mason, before presenting the speakers of the evening, made a short address, in which he extolled the Irish national spirit.

"When the Mayflower turned away from the land where they asserted the divine right of kings," he said, "she pointed her prow toward the land of the divine right of man. We have the blood of those same pilgrims coursing in our veins, and there never has been a struggle for liberty when we have not stretched out our hands to give the oppressed assistance. These distinguished statesmen come to us now on a mission of peace. They are here to appeal to our consciences and our hearts, not our ships and our guns. Who shall say that we will not receive them with open arms? They come from a country that has sent us no anarchists. Then let us do what we can for them, and let us realize that the echo of this meeting will reach around the world tomorrow, reaching even Paul Kruger in his exile."

Mr. Redmond stepped forward, as he was introduced, amid tremendous applause.

"It is most fortunate," he said, "that the visit of myself and my colleagues is synchronous with the anniversary of those young Irish martyrs who laid down their lives for their country. So long as their memory is green and their names are honored throughout the world the cause of Ireland is safe. The cause for which they died has progressed during all the years since their martyrdom. Irishmen in America have been discouraged, I know, during the last ten years at the spectacle of dissension in Ireland. But regrettable as that has been, the cause of Ireland has been advancing all this time. Her cause is stronger today than at any time in the memory of the oldest man here. That the great movement created by Parnell seemed for a time wrecked by this internal strife is true, and it is also true that Ireland is today binding up the wounds received in this civil struggle, but with the great consolidation of the Irish people, which has now been brought about through the United Irish League, the future is full of promise."

"We want the assistance of you Irish-Americans in furthering the struggle for freedom, but if you hold aloof, as you have done in the past, then we are at enough and well enough organized to win our battle in the end single-handed. Our principle is the principle of rebellion against foreign rule, whether it takes the form of a resort to the battlefield—where so many of our brave sons have perished—or of a political fight, as has seemed more fitting during the last few years. We propose to conduct a popular move in Ireland so uncompromising and unswerving that all Irishmen will become increasingly difficult and dangerous for England to manage. Irishmen have no great respect for the law of the land when the law is English made. "With our little force we are accomplishing a great deal in the British House of Parliament. Were it not for the Irish party there no protest would have been raised in the world against the iniquitous Boer war. It is the fashion nowadays to be selfish in world patriotism, and the only voice to echo through the world in behalf of the Boers was that of poor and oppressed Ireland."

In conclusion Mr. Redmond stated that the mission of himself and his comrades was to ask the people of this country to establish branches of the United Irish League.

"We want organized allies," he said, "to whom we may appeal in a crisis, with the assurance that we will receive aid and support. We want to be prepared to grasp at freedom when the opportunity offers. All we ask is to be allowed to shape our own destinies."

Resolutions offered by Simon J. Forhan were unanimously adopted. The resolutions pledged support to "free Ireland," expressed regret at the constant immigration from the fatherland and contained a clause offering sympathy for the Boers and the hope that they may secure their independence.

Patrick A. McHugh, M. P., brought cheers from the immense audience when he said: "We have come to America to tell you that a fight is on in Ireland and to ask you boys to give us a hand." His utterance was met with approval when he said that he believed the Irish Nationalists can rest assured of the support of the Irish in America. He spoke of the great reception the Irish envoys had received in New York, Boston and elsewhere, but told the audience that the great meeting in Chicago eclipsed them all.

METZGER-KELTY.

Pretty Wedding Solemnized at St. Brigid's in the Highlands.

One of the loveliest weddings ever witnessed in the Highlands was that of Miss Prudentia Kelly to Albert Metzger, solemnized at St. Brigid's church with upstrial high mass last Tuesday morning.

Many and showy flowers were banked about the altar against a rich background of palm plants. The attendants were the ushers, Messrs. Charles Klappe, Charles Pedler, George Renneisen and Edward Kelly, brother of the bride. Miss Kelly was charmingly gowned in white Paris muslin over tulle, with satin loops tucked gracefully over the dress. After the ceremony the Rev. Father Connolly spoke a few feeling and kindly words and congratulated the couple on the happy occasion. Upon leaving the church the bridal pair were tendered a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, the house being artistically decorated with ferns and white roses. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Metzger went to their cozy home, 1525 Barrett avenue, which had been handsomely furnished throughout by their relatives.

The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly, 1320 Elwood avenue, and is possessed of many admirable qualities, which united with her lovable disposition have made her from childhood a favorite with young and old. She is also well known in Catholic circles. Mr. Metzger is a clever and successful young man, and is endowed with many accomplishments, being a violinist of whom our local musical circles justly feel proud. Many congratulatory messages were received from all parts of the State, all wishing them joy and happiness.

LETTER CARRIERS JOLLIFY.

George Happel, the well known letter carrier, who recently took unto himself a lovely wife, with whom he made an extended trip to the principal cities of the North, returned last week after having enjoyed the precious privilege of a honeymoon, and has settled down to the responsibilities of a benedict. Mr. Happel is a popular young man of the West End, and as a mark of appreciation of his brother carriers he tendered them a reception last Saturday evening, followed by a spread which was sumptuous and embraced all the season's delicacies. All who partook of the festivities enjoyed themselves immensely, and before departing wished the happy couple a brilliant and prosperous future. Judged by the good-natured carrier's previous actions, this has long since been made secure.

LADIES MADE HAPPY.

The ladies of St. Anthony's congregation, who gave a bazaar this week at St. Anthony's Hall for the benefit of their parochial school, have scarcely recovered from the delightful surprise given them Wednesday night by Col. John Whallen. The Colonel invited and entertained at supper a large party of well known citizens, among them merchants, city officials and several clergymen. Col. Whallen gave the bazaar a boom that assured its success, which the ladies wish us to say they duly appreciate.

MRS. JOHN E. WALTER,
President of the St. Anthony Hospital Sewing Circle.

WHO THEY ARE.

Catholic Ladies Doing Splendid Work For Our New Hospital.

Sewing Circle Represents Nearly Every Congregation in Louisville.

The Magnificent Structure Will Soon Be Ready For Occupancy.

MEET NEXT WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

St. Anthony's Hospital on Barrett avenue is rapidly nearing completion, the result of the indefatigable and unceasing work of the Franciscan Sisters of Perpetual Adoration. The institution is located on grounds which for beauty of appearance and healthfulness of situation are unequalled. It is only a little over a year ago that the good Sisters received a call from Right Rev. William McCloskey, the venerated Bishop of the Louisville diocese, to come to this city. The site on Barrett avenue, overlooking the entire city and suburbs, was purchased and plans for the erection of a hospital in harmony with the conditions of the commercial and manufacturing interests of the Gateway of the South and adapted to its needs were made. Building operations were begun early last spring, the corner-stone being soon afterward laid by Bishop McCloskey in the presence of a vast multitude, and now the noble and imposing structure will soon be ready to receive the sick and unfortunate without reference to creed, color or nationality.

With the foregoing facts before them a number of Louisville's most charitably disposed and best known ladies resolved to assist the Sisters in their noble undertaking. Meetings were called and soon nearly every congregation in the city was well represented, and finally St. Anthony's Sewing Circle was organized. This society of noble women resolved to furnish St. Anthony's Hospital with linens and bedding, and for months weekly meetings have been held, interest and enthusiasm increasing until the membership now numbers about 1,000. The dues are only ten cents a month, and this sum is devoted to the purchase of the material necessary for pillow-cases, sheets, etc., which are made up by the ladies. When the membership had assumed proportions representing all parts of the city it became necessary to elect permanent officers, and the wisdom of this action is everywhere apparent by the enthusiasm and interest aroused by those selected, who are as follows:

President—Mrs. John Walters, of St. Martin's.
First Vice President—Mrs. Charles Smith, of the Cathedral.
Second Vice President—Mrs. John Ecker.

Treasurer—Mrs. Mathias Poschinger. The various congregations are represented with the following ladies as Chairmen:

St. Boniface—Mrs. Frank Geher.
St. Martin's—Mrs. John Dacher.
St. Joseph's—Mrs. Theresa Weiss.
St. Brigid's—Mrs. Josephine Stey.
St. John's—Miss Rosa Teupe.

St. Louis Bertrand's—Miss Emma Depen.
St. Francis'—Mrs. Michael Zinlich.
Cathedral—Mrs. Anna Watten.
Blessed Sacrament—Mrs. Michael Relihan.
St. Paul's—Mrs. Joseph Brumleve.
St. Vincent de Paul's—Mrs. George Scharfenberger.
St. Cecilia's—Miss Minnie Reagan.
St. Philip Neri—Mrs. Mary Fogarty.
Sacred Heart Retreat—Mrs. Dr. Huber.
Holy Trinity—Mrs. Mary Stich.
St. Mary's—Miss Lepping.
St. Aloysius—Miss St. Johns.
St. Francis of Rome—Miss Maria Meriwee.

Besides the foregoing there are a number of others whose names could not be obtained when this was written. The next meeting of the members of the St. Anthony Sewing Circle has been called for next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the temporary home of the Franciscan Sisters, 621 East Gray street, and Mrs. President Walters, whose picture we take pleasure in presenting herewith to our readers and the friends of the hospital, hopes to see every member present.

The Franciscan Sisters now have a number of large hospitals throughout the country, notable among them those at Cleveland, Denver, Lafayette, Omaha, Terre Haute, Colorado Springs, Memphis, New Albany and Lincoln and Grand Island, Neb., but the one here will surpass all of those. Animate by true Christian charity, these holy women labor indefatigably for the sick and poor, and their admirable devotedness has brought renewed health and usefulness to many persons who today are pursuing their usual avocations to the benefit of themselves, their families and their friends. Desirous to do "the greatest good to the greatest number," they receive patients without regard to creed, nationality, race or sex. Here the rich have no preference over the poor, the rule being "First come, first served." Their hospitals are a charity in the broadest sense of the word.

Those admitted within their sheltering walls and unable to requite the good Sisters for their tender care are given the same attention as they who are able to contribute much or little toward defraying expenses. The same care is given all. Their day's work begins long before daylight; they spend two hours in prayer before their patients have awakened to another day of misery. It only ends when every inmate of their hospital has been provided with all the comforts which ingenious charity can invent to make the sufferers' night as painless as possible. Then the Sisters rest their weary limbs on narrow cots of straw, and it affords them a better night's repose than the tenants of downy couches would deem it possible to enjoy. But even then some of the sisters discount the few hours sleep to attend during the night some of the stricken patients. They glide, like unto the ministering angels, from bed to bed, and unreasonably and petulant as sick people are apt to be, these nurses of the poor know how to comfort all.

The foregoing are a few reasons why all Christians should aid the Franciscan Sisters in performing God's work of ministering to the sick and unfortunate.

FORTY HOURS.

The Forty Hours' devotions will begin at the Cathedral at the high mass tomorrow morning. The solemn ceremony was observed last Sunday at St. William's church for the first time, and also at St. Mary Magdalen's. Large numbers received the sacrament.

Satoli Council Initiated Another Class Last Monday Night.

Trinity Council Making Preparations For Big Gains in Membership.

Much Interest and Several Hot Contests in the Coming Elections.

GOOD MEN TO SELECT FROM

The members of Satoli Council, Y. M. I., are still hustling for new material, and with very gratifying results. Last month a class of twelve was initiated, and on Monday night the degrees were conferred on seven more. Quite a number who have been elected to membership were unable to be present, and their names will be formally added to the roll before the first of the year. The newly-elected candidates were the given the impressive obligation by the officers of Satoli, the second degree being conferred by the team from Trinity Council. The exemplification of this degree was carried out in a pleasing manner, and was highly appreciated by the new members, especially Joseph Nally and R. Lee Pfeiffer. Those initiated were Messrs. Harry Wellington, Frank Queenan, Edward Pope, Joseph Nally, George Kilcourse, Frank McCornack and R. Lee Pfeiffer. They are all well known young men who will add greatly to the influence of Satoli Council.

During the evening a recess was taken, when cigars were distributed and an hour devoted to social talk, there being enthusiastic calls for Councilman Albert Smith and members from Trinity and Mackin Councils. The nomination of officers for the coming year was postponed till next Monday night, when President O'Sullivan hopes for a large attendance. Satoli should continue its good work and soon number as many members as any council in this jurisdiction.

Trinity Council also held a large and interesting meeting Monday night, the most important business being the nomination of officers for next year, and this brought out a big attendance of members. President Sullivan's friends were greatly disappointed when they learned he would decline the honor of re-election, which his excellent record assured. The nominees for this important office are Messrs. Joe Piazza, Edward Slattery and Edward Bosler, all popular young men and competent to fill the position with satisfaction to the council. Each has a large personal following, and the contest will be close and exciting. Rev. Father O'Grady will continue as Chaplain, and the nominations for the other offices follow:

First Vice President—Henry Strube, Tom Garvey, Edward Bosler, Adam Schneider, Joseph Kirchdorfer, Dan Hennessy.

Second Vice President—Edward Wolf, Albert Martin, William Bosung, Edward Slattery, William Hillerich.

Recording Secretary—Joseph Gaffney, Joseph McGill, A. M. Keifer, P. W.

Weidimer, George Dues, Clem Ellert.
Financial Secretary—William Gast, Charles Sievert, Clem Ellert, Adam Schneider, A. H. Hukkenbeck.

Corresponding Secretary—Frank Dockweiler, Robert Goebel, Adam Schneider, Dr. Phil Beutel.

Treasurer—Jos. McGill, Thomas Newuan, Henry Strube, Price Archer, Joseph Piazza, Henry Kirchdorfer.

Marshal—Maurice Danaher, Henry Herberger, Tom Garvey, William Bosung, Andy Schreck.

Inside Sentinel—Edward Strosberg, Edward Thobe, Thomas Newuan, A. M. Keifer, William Bosung, George Reilling.

Outside Sentinel—Charles Riehl, W. H. Barnes, E. J. Bosler, Jake Pfalzer, L. P. Zimmerman.

Executive Committee—Henry Strube, Joseph Kirchdorfer, Dan Hennessy, Andy Schreck, James B. Kelly, William Barnes, Edward Wolf, Price Archer, William Hillerich, F. W. Weideman, Frank Ackerman, Robert F. Walsh, George Reilling, Tom Garvey, Adam Schneider, Ben Huid, Joseph McGill.

Council Physician—Drs. Phil Beutel, Lammers, Carpenter and Clark.

Collector—Charles Sievert, Thomas Garvey, George Dues, Edward Kelly, Henry Herberger, William Bosung.

The other business transacted was of a routine nature and unimportant.

Much enthusiasm was exhibited at Mackin Council's meeting Tuesday night. The new by-laws and rules of order were adopted, after which nominations for officers were made and a spirited campaign inaugurated. It is no small honor to be elected President of this influential and strong organization. The office has been filled with signal ability by Daniel Cuniff for the past year, and the race to succeed him lies between Tom Burkholder and Frank Murphy, both strong candidates. Who the winner will be cannot be told until the ballots are counted. The nominations for the other officers were:

Chaplain—Rev. Fathers Cunningham, Leo and Brady.

First Vice President—William Kerberg, Jack Shelley.

Second Vice President—Gus Weber, Charles Raidy.

Financial Secretary—George Simonis, Fred Herp.

Recording Secretary—Joseph Steltenpohl, Dan Weber, George Simonis.

Corresponding Secretary—F. Adams.

Treasurer—Jack Shelley, Louis Straub, Joe Steltenpohl, Ben Sams.

Marshal—William Shaugnessy, Robert Osborne, George Lautz.

Inside Sentinel—Robert Osborne, Anthony Barile, Alex. Cathof, Louis Borntraeger.

Outside Sentinel—Arthur Senn, James Hines, Edward Canty.

Executive Committee—Dan Cuniff, Edward Andriotti, George Lautz, James Rider, Louis Borntraeger, Edward Wentzell, Gus Weber, James Hisey, Frank Murphy, Tom Burkholder, Charles Raidy, Lee Fisher, Jack Shelley, Joe Heckman, Fred Eberhard, John Harlow, James Shelley, Frank Adams. The committee consists of five members.

The entire dance given by Mackin Council at Schreier's Hall was the social event of the season for the young people of the West End. One hundred tables were required for the players. After the distribution of the prizes dancing was indulged in till after midnight. Following is a list of the prize winners and the donors.

Mrs. F. Bilger, handsome ornaments, from Mrs. Abraham Earl; Mrs. Pius Barthelme, jar imported cherries, from Rudolph Hochstrasser; Mrs. Charles Miles, fine picture; Miss Annie Steltenpohl, palm and vase, from Nick Poutrich; Miss Emma Marshall, picture frame; Mrs. Pres. Stevens, ladies' table; Miss Pauline Harney, chocolate pitcher, from Charles Roe; Miss Rosa Potter, foot stool, from Steve Harney; Miss Margaret Coleman, sofa pillow, from Mrs. Lawrence; George Francis, silk umbrella, from Gathof & Bros.; Theodore Metzger, box cigars, from West End Bowling Club; Edward Curran, box cigars, from Barney Flynn; Clem Becken, fine necktie, from Gus Weber; Nick Gathof, box cigars, from Dan Schreier; Michael Stark, pair silk suspenders, from Martin Brooker.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Celebrate Initiation of Forty New Members With Banquet.

The Knights of Columbus of Louisville had a gala day last Sunday. For some time previous Louisville Council had been making extensive arrangements for this meeting, the most important yet held here, and the initiation of about forty new members, among them being many of our most prominent and influential Catholic citizens. The initiatory exercises were held in Elks' Hall in the presence of several hundred members of the order, and occupied the entire afternoon.

Chicago Council sent a large delegation to assist in conferring the degrees, and many also came from Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Nashville, Paducah, Memphis, Evansville, Chattanooga, Lexington and Knoxville. The successful event was celebrated at night with a banquet at the Louisville Hotel that sparkled with brilliancy. Edward J. McDermott was toastmaster, and first introduced Dr. Thomas Hart, editor of the Cincinnati Catholic Telegraph, who delivered an eloquent and able discourse on "Charity." Other speakers were A. O'Brien, of Nashville; Chancellor James J. Fitzgerald and John J. Barrett, whose speech on "Job Lots" provoked side-splitting laughter. It will be at least six months before another initiation takes place. The visitors were loud in their praises of the treatment received from the Louisville Knights.

Claims Another of Louisville's Best Known Catholic Women.

Mrs. James Wolf Succumbs After Short Illness of Pneumonia.

Patrick Sheridan Also Called After Long and Useful Life.

SINCERE SYMPATHY FOR RELATIVES

There departed this life here this week a Catholic lady whose loss will long be mourned by the entire community, and particularly the Dominican parish. Mrs. Margaret Wolf, the beloved wife of James Wolf, the well known grocer, died last Sunday morning at her home, Eighth and Oldham streets, after a short illness of pneumonia, leaving a bereaved husband and two children to mourn over their great loss, and the sad news enshrouded many homes where she was known in deep gloom. Mrs. Wolf came to this country from Ireland while quite young, and upon reaching womanhood she was married to James Wolf. She was a devoted wife and mother and an exemplary Christian, whose charities and kindly acts were without number, and many there are who will miss her during the coming holiday season. The funeral, which took place Tuesday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church, was one of the largest ever seen in Limerick. The solemn requiem high mass for the repose of her soul was sung by Rev. Father Fowler, assisted by Fathers Justa and Kelly as deacon and sub-deacon. Father Fowler preached the funeral sermon, which was a deserved tribute to the many excellent qualities of the deceased, there being but few dry-eyes in the vast assemblage when the last words were spoken. From the church her remains were tenderly borne to the flower-covered grave in St. Louis cemetery, the pall-bearers being Messrs. John Hennessy, Patrick Kilkeny, Thomas McHugh, Michael Walsh, Patrick Glenn and J. Blair.

None mourn more sincerely Mrs. Wolf's untimely death than does the Kentucky Irish American, whose firm and staunch friend she was from its birth. May the earth rest lightly o'er her body and her soul rest in peace.

Many and feeling are the tributes sent from her friends, and especially the following from Mrs. Annie Nevill Cunningham:

"Gone, as is the soft southern breeze that wooed the flowers from their nesting places. Stilled, as the laughing waters of the forest brook when its golden God has hid its face, refusing it warmth and benediction. Quiet forever the heart that beat for friends as well as for home and children, whose gentility never failed to change the acidities and duplicities of others into joyful ripples of loving kindness. Smooth is the placid brow that was never disturbed by ill-will; closed the modest eye and sealed the lips that never betrayed a friend or neighbor. The happy circle is broken, the most precious bead of the chaplet is lost. Margaret, the precious pearl, has dropped from among us, leaving us only the beautiful memory of her womanly, Christian life."

"So soon may I follow
When friendships decay,
When from love's shining circle
The gems drop away.
When true hearts lie withered
And fond ones are flown,
Oh! who would inhabit
This bleak world alone?"

Many messages of condolence have been received by the bereaved family from New York and other States.

Patrick Sheridan, a venerable and respected citizen of the West End, passed away Saturday night at his residence on High street, after a long and useful life. He was sixty-nine years old, and came here from County Mayo, Ireland, when a boy. For years he resided on Fifth street, but long ago moved to Seventeenth and High streets, where he was engaged in business until recently, when he retired because of his advanced age. Mr. Sheridan had many relatives here, and leaves besides two grown sons and a daughter one sister, Mrs. Catherine Moore, mother of Mrs. Mike Hickey, James Moore and Officer Tom Moore. His other sister, Mrs. Annie Grimes, mother of Pat and the late Joe Grimes, died some years ago. A practical Catholic, a faithful husband and father, a good citizen and a kind friend, his loss is sincerely mourned.

Tuesday morning his funeral took place at St. Patrick's church, where a vast number gathered to pay the last tribute to him who during life had failed to listen to the appeal for help and assistance. Monsignor Gambon was the celebrant of the requiem high mass, and upon its conclusion preached an eloquent and able discourse, during which he dwelt upon the many good qualities of heart and head of the deceased, and urged upon his hearers the necessity of being always prepared for the summons. From the church the remains were borne to the cemetery, where they were laid to rest.

A CLEANER CITY.

For the last twenty-five years the subject of smoke consumers has bobbed up periodically, but after a few spasmodic efforts on the part of the agitators the interest in the subject ceased for another spell. It is to be hoped that the movement started now by the Commercial Club will be pushed and worked up until some good results will be attained.

Louisville, through the non-use of consumers, is one of the dirtiest cities in the country, but with the expenditure of a little money could be made one of the cleanest, and would then be considered one of the prettiest.

This town is a pretty one, but both its natural and artificial beauties are obscured in the pall of smoke that hangs so dense above. It is also detrimental to health and is exceedingly hard on people with pulmonary complaints. Let the women here as in other cities help this movement for the purifying and beautifying of the town and with a hearty pull altogether wonderful results could be accomplished.

THE REAL "OUTRAGE."

A great hub-bub has been raised in the past two weeks in an effort to make a sensation out of the alleged forcible abduction and imprisonment of a woman in a convent, with the only result that the identity of the unfortunate has been revealed and she made the subject of public gossip to the humiliation of her relatives and friends. No good, but harm, has been done, whatever may have been the motives of the instigators and promoters of the "expose." To intelligent people the affair has excited only disgust and contempt for the expositors and pity for the unfortunate and her family.

There are few families but have a "skeleton in the closet" which they strive to conceal from public gaze or have a "black sheep" whose capers causes them sorrow and anxiety. Their efforts at concealment, restraint and reform of the unfortunate can be promoted, but are most likely rendered futile, by publicity, besides subjecting the victim to reproach and the family to undeserved humiliation. Those who tear down the veil and expose such family troubles violate not only Christian charity but decency as well, and benefit neither the unfortunate, the family nor the public morals.

Such "outrages," "assaults on individual liberty," "illegal arrests and imprisonments" and other bombastic titles as have been used in connection with the deplorable affair are so much buncombe and by no means justify the intrusion into and publication of an individual's misfortune and a family's troubles. Such "outrages" are not uncommon in this or other communities where unfortunates have relatives or friends who seek to reform them of waywardness or protect them from their weaknesses by having them secretly sent to and confined in not only convents, but jails, hospitals, sanitariums and asylums. And such efforts of relatives and friends are not to be condemned or baffled by exposure for the sake of sensation, but are commendable and deserve the co-operation of all who really desire the reformation of the unfortunate humanity and respect the sympathies of the family.

Of those who strive to save from exposure and families from the shame of the misfortune of the family.

intermeddlers who violate right and decency by prying into private matters and delight in causing people pain and humiliation by publishing them to the world, who commit the real outrage.

DENOUNCED AT HOME.

The prevalence of discontent and protest in England against the continuance of the policy of brutality in South Africa is more outspoken and widespread than the dispatches state. It is not confined to any class or section, but seems to have become general and pronounced as its effects on the reputation, status and trade of England become manifest. Though no Government has formally protested, it is clear that all of them turn the cold shoulder toward England and completely ignore her on all occasions, and the popular sentiment in all civilized countries is denunciatory. The English people, despite the attitude of their Government and the misrepresentations of their press, realize the truth that England is no longer feared nor respected, while the popular feeling of other nations is fully emphasized by the loss of trade by all branches in England.

And this protest is taking shape and activity as the time for Parliament to assemble approaches. Prominent men, statesmen, writers and even Bishops of the Established Church, declare their opposition, sign protests and address public meetings, denouncing the Government and demanding a discontinuance of the barbarous warfare in South Africa, some of their utterances being what would have been classed and punished as treason not many years ago.

A public meeting in London last week was addressed by William T. Stead, the well known author. Stead is respected the world over for his learning, truthfulness, conservatism and fearlessness in upholding the right and denouncing wrong, and what he says is generally accepted as correct. Speaking of the Kitchener regime in South Africa, he said:

"I thank God that Germany and Europe were bold enough to call baby murder crime. Compared with England's conduct, Herod's slaughters of the innocents were saint-like. Great Britain ought to be beaten in this unjust war. In the American war we employed redskins, just as we have loosed kaffirs against the Boers, and thank God, we were beaten."

That in London, by a prominent Englishman addressing a public meeting of Englishmen, and the Government seems powerless to check the spread of this discontent and rising storm of protest, even within its capital city. To do so would doubtless require vigorous measures, and a resort to them might cause a revolution in sedate old England.

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune accuses Lord Kitchener of sending misleading reports of military operations in South Africa, and says the recent battle at Villiersdorp was wholly favorable to the Boers and far more disastrous to the British than reported. The real situation is likewise concealed or misrepresented. The Boers are active, avoid general engagements, but sweep down unexpectedly on outposts and rear guards, making successful attacks and escaping with little loss, but usually with additional arms, ammunition and supplies captured from the British. The British forces are worn out and demoralized by this continual harassing, marching and counter-marching and exposure of the campaign. There is a growing feeling of disappointment at Lord Kitchener's failure to counteract and check the Boer tactics, so disastrous to British arms, that seem destined to prolong the war indefinitely.

The annual report of the London work-houses (they have no almshouses in England, paupers and petty criminals being classed alike) has alarmed the Government and press, as it shows an increase of 4,500 inmates over the previous year, and the aggregate number exceeds that of any year in London's history. It is a true index of the industrial depression, trade stagnation and financial embarrassment, pervading all England, despite efforts to conceal or minimize it by colored statements in the newspapers and garbled reports of Government officials. Coming, as it does just at the beginning of winter, it is a gloomy prospect to ponder over, as it promises more paupers before spring, the average poor shunning the work-house during warmer seasons, but are driven by the cold to seek its dreaded and detested shelter.

Col. Arthur Lynch, who commanded the Irish division of the Boer army in the South African war, has been elected to Parliament from Galway. The wonder is that he was not sent to prison or worse as a rebel bearing arms against the King. The London papers affect to be consoled with the assertion that Lynch will not dare appear to claim his seat in Parliament. Well, it is more than likely that Col. Lynch will be there when Parliament meets to demand admittance and all the rights and privileges of a member of Parliament. Then we may see what will be done about it. At any rate, the election of Lynch is an emphatic protest from the people of Galway against the British policy in South Africa, and being the first opportunity the Irish people have had to express their opinion on the issue, it is significant.

Louisville has two elements in her population that hinder her progress. One, the "old fogey," who always oppose and retard everything progressive; the other who did nothing but ridicule, condemn and asperse the motives of those who do something to advance the city's interests. The elimination of both elements might reduce the city's population somewhat, but their loss would be the city's gain.

Chamberlain's mouth is likely to get England into more serious trouble if he is not muzzled. It was his bombast that was largely responsible for the Boer war; his insults have roused Germany to white heat of indignation, his bullying gives the French cartoonists subjects for offensive illustrations, and his insinuations have caused dissension among army officials, and is about to disrupt the Ministry.

Canada is sore because England signed the new Isthmian canal treaty without compelling the United States to renounce her claims to the Alaskan boundary and give up the Yukon gold region to Canada. But our Canuck friends should bear in mind that there are some things that England can not do, and that it might be considered foolish to attempt.

The Anglomaniacs in this country have become very quiet recently. Are they ashamed of England's brutality in South Africa, or is it possible that they, too, have basely deserted Old England in her hour of disaster and tribulation just when she is so eagerly seeking for one friendly government in the world?

Sir Thomas Lipton is coming again after that cup with the Shamrock III. Perhaps the third time may prove a charm. At any rate all admire Sir Thomas' persistent pluck.

In making up your list of Christmas presents do not forget the Kentucky Irish American, as it would be one of the most acceptable gifts that could be made.

The action of the Council in thanking the Bernheim brothers for their gift of the Jefferson statue shows but one little man in thirty-six.

The Kentucky Irish American as a weekly visitor would be a reminder of you to your friends for a whole year.

Congress meets next week and the political pot will begin to boil.

IMPOSING CEREMONY.

Many Witness Dedication of New Catholic Church at Pineville.

The new Catholic church at Pineville, Ky., which has been under construction for some time, to take the place of the old one destroyed by fire last spring, was dedicated Sunday by Right Rev. Benedict, O. S. B., of St. Bernard, Ala. The assisting clergy were the pastor, Rev. Father Giles, O. S. B.; Father Michaels, C. R., of St. Mary's College; Rev. B. A. Cunningham, of Holy Cross church, this city, and Father Roberts, O. S. B., of Brookside, Ala. Father Cunningham was the celebrant of the solemn high mass, assisted by Fathers Michaels and Roberts as deacon and sub-deacon. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Father Michaels, and was an able and scholarly effort.

The services were the first of the kind ever seen in that part of the State, and members of the church from other parts of Kentucky and outside the State were present, among those from Louisville being Mrs. Col. John H. Whallen and Miss Lizzie Cunningham. Special trains brought parties from Corbin and Middlesboro, the number of strangers present being estimated at about 300. The music was furnished by the Middlesboro choir under the direction of Mrs. Buck, and was rendered with as much art as would have been done by any city choir.

All of the windows are memorial windows, one having been put in by a Louisville society. The people of Pineville, Protestants as well as Catholics, are very proud of their new church, and they have every reason to be, and of their faithful pastor, Father Giles, who has built three churches since his ordination four years ago.

RECENT DEATHS.

Two deaths that caused inexpressible grief this week were those of Elizabeth Karins, wife of Francis Wall, and Miss Ellen Aylward, both of whom were buried from the Dominican church.

The funeral of Terrence Guthrie, for many years a resident of and well known in Southern Indiana, took place Wednesday morning from Holy Trinity church in New Albany, the solemn services being conducted by Rev. Father Kelly.

Monday morning the funerals of two aged and respected residents took place here, that of William Lane, aged fifty-six years, being held at St. Brigid's church, Father Connolly conducting the sad services. Mrs. Ellen O'Brien, the aged mother of Mrs. Louis Meagher, 2710 Grayson street, was buried in St. John's cemetery.

The unexpected and shocking news of the death of little Mary Hargadon, the ten-year-old daughter of Edward and Mary Hargadon, which occurred at Chicago on Wednesday, caused a sad Thanksgiving for her relatives and friends in Louisville. Her remains were brought here for interment, and much sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents.

The death of Mrs. Bridget Gleason, widow of the late John Gleason, occurred most unexpectedly Tuesday evening at her home on Front street in Jeffersonville, and the sad news was received with expressions of genuine regret throughout the city. Mrs. Gleason was for many years a resident of Jeffersonville, and numbered all her acquaintances as her friends. She was connected with St. Augustine's parish and was prominent in its affairs until quite recently, when old age necessitated her retirement from other than home activities. Mrs. Gleason was a true type of the Catholic wife and mother, devoted to her children and keenly interested in their welfare. She is survived by three sons and two daughters, Robert Gleason, President of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Keeper at the Indiana Reformatory, Thomas and John Gleason, Mary Gleason and Mrs. Andrew Kimmick. Her funeral took place Thursday morning. The services and requiem high mass were held at St. Augustine's church, and the sacred edifice was filled by friends and relatives, who by their presence attested the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Rev. Father O'Connell was the celebrant of the mass, and during the services he spoke most feelingly upon the exemplary and Christian life of her who had been called home to God. Many messages of condolence were received by the surviving relatives, several being from this city, where the remains now lie awaiting the resurrection.

The marriage of Edward Boyle and Mrs. Sadie Tracey took place Thanksgiving morning at St. Augustine's church in Jeffersonville, Rev. John O'Connell pronouncing the words that united the happy couple, both of whom are held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

A wedding of interest to many in this city was solemnized at Raywick last week, the contracting parties being Miss Mary McCauley and Charles Wimsatt. The fair bride is the oldest daughter of Joe McCauley and a young lady of rare intelligence, and is widely and prominently related throughout the State.

The reception and dance given by the Zenda Dancing Club at the New Athletic Club was a social success. A large crowd of happy young people were present despite the inclement weather. The gentlemen composing the club desire to thank through the columns of this paper all who contributed to the success of the affair.

A wedding of interest here as well as in the vicinity of New Haven was that of Miss Mary Bryan and Milburn Boone, solemnized last week by Rev. Father Welsh. The bride is the lovely daughter of J. M. Bryan, and is universally admired by all who know her. The lucky

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Around Loyalty's sacred shrine
We gather on the most festive of days,
And offer our thanks to Love Divine
In one mighty chorus of praise.

For the wondrous star of grand progress
Shining o'er our proud Nation's chart,
We give thanks, but—Oh! God! deign to bless
It with greater kindness of heart.

We thank God for life—its every day,
Whether dark with Sorrow's blighting
blast,
Or brightened with Joy's divinely ray,
And for more love we plead to the last.

SOCIETY.

G. D. Boldrick, of Lebanon, was here the first part of the week.

Miss Annie Thornbury has returned from Howardstown, where she visited her sister, Mrs. H. P. Cambron.

Another little girl visitor has taken up her abode with Nic Smith, Garvin Place. Mother and child are doing well.

Miss Lily Thurman, of Bardstown, who has been spending a month with relatives here, has returned home.

J. T. Donovan and F. M. Tricker, prominent citizens of Paducah, arrived in the city Sunday for a short visit.

Mrs. Agnes Graham has arrived home from Marshall, Ill., after a most enjoyable visit with her friend, Miss Maggie McKeever.

Among the well known Kentuckians visiting here this week were J. D. Donovan, of Lexington, and D. H. Welsh, of Mt. Sterling.

Miss Monta Kelley, a fair visitor from Pueblo, Col., arrived here Tuesday, and is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. William C. Camp, 1906 Second street.

Misses Stella Kehoe and Lizzie Russell, two Jeffersonville belles who have been visiting friends at Princeton, returned home for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Annie, Sallie and Catherine Meehan left the first part of the week for Covington, to spend Thanksgiving with their aunt, Mrs. James Meehan.

Henry McCann and wife, for many years residents of Jeffersonville, left Monday for Mountain Grove, Mo., where they will make their future home.

The Cecilia Circle met with the Misses McCann at their hospitable home in Jeffersonville last Wednesday, who entertained in a most charming manner.

Mrs. Matt Burke and Miss Mamie Burke, who are quite prominent in Jeffersonville society circles, have been spending week with friends in Daviess county.

Mrs. Col. John H. Whallen and Miss Lizzie Cunningham have returned from Pineville, where they spent a pleasant week as the guests of Dan Edwards, brother of the former.

Mrs. George Barnett, who has been at St. Joseph's Infirmary for the past ten days, is much better, and her friends will be glad to learn that she will soon be able to be removed to her home.

Dennis Sullivan's numerous friends will be glad to know that he is doing nicely at the Norton Infirmary. While awaiting in the Illinois Central yards last week he came near losing his foot.

A bright little girl from Babyland arrived last Saturday morning to brighten the home of Frank Smith, Nineteenth and Portland avenue. The happy father declares her the season's prettiest visitor.

The Limerick friends of Mike Walsh, the well known painter, are looking for an important announcement shortly after Advent. There are several rumors afloat, but none are yet ready for publication.

The many friends of Mrs. Maurice Coll, mother of County Treasurer Barney Coll, are rejoiced over her recovery from an attack of stomach congestion that for a few days rendered her condition quite critical.

Mrs. J. W. Sweeney, who has been for several weeks under treatment at the Mercy Hospital in Jeffersonville, suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever, has been removed to her home and is now convalescent, to the great relief of her friends and relatives.

The marriage of Edward Boyle and Mrs. Sadie Tracey took place Thanksgiving morning at St. Augustine's church in Jeffersonville, Rev. John O'Connell pronouncing the words that united the happy couple, both of whom are held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

Up Stairs Over English Woolen Mills Store

Cupid was busy in Nelson county last week. Tuesday morning at Bardstown Rev. Father O'Connell officiated at the marriage of Miss Mayme Hurst, the popular and handsome daughter of Gam Hurst, and James Henratta, a prosperous business man Clarksville, Tenn. This was the most brilliant wedding witnessed in Bardstown this season.

Postmaster Fisher and Alderman Hannon, of Paducah, were among those from a distance to attend the initiation and banquet of the Knights of Columbus last Sunday. They are two of the best known and most popular men in the Penryville district, and though of different political parties the good citizens will grant them any office they seek.

A wedding of more than ordinary interest in the society circles of Lexington and Versailles was solemnized Wednesday at St. Leo's church at the latter place. The contracting parties were John F. Bradley, a well known and popular Lexingtonian, and Miss Sallie McKenna, the lovely and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKenna. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bealer, and was witnessed by large numbers of friends and relatives, many from a distance.

Among the most delightful of the week's social events was the reception given by Miss Blanche Bouchet in honor of her guest, Dr. George Wilson, of Nashville. The decorations were brilliant and beautiful, and the dining-room presented a very exquisite appearance. Among those present were Misses Mamie Kelly, Lena Willis, Daisy Morris, Beese Devold, Emma Hoke, Aimee Hays; Messrs. Albert Casse, Will Scott, Frank Harris, Edward Hines, Gus Hilderbrand and Edward Case. Dr. Wilson was also entertained Wednesday evening at the residence of Miss Hayes.

FASHION'S FOIBLES.

As to buttons, there is everything and every kind, but the button covered with silk lace and velvet, embroidered if you like, is the latest fancy.

In hand trimmings there are strong contrasts, cloth stitched on velvet being one of them. Plain cloth hands on figured velvet are especially effective.

One of the most attractive borders is a band of black and white striped silk cut out in an irregular design on one edge and embroidered all around with white silk.

Cloth embroidered on the edges in an open-work design is the feature of one gown, which is of black cloth embroidered in black silk, the design being fully two inches wide.

Chenille is very much employed for combination trimmings and is used by itself in scroll designs. A great deal of Persian embroidery is seen, and particularly when it is applied to linens.

It is well to remember that in spite of the many attractions of rough hairy fabrics and their present popularity the smooth-faced cloths still hold first place for any kind of elegance in a wool gown.

The craze for embroidery extends to the materials which show narrow borders of varying colors on one edge. Some of these are in machine embroidery, while others are woven in the fabric when it is made.

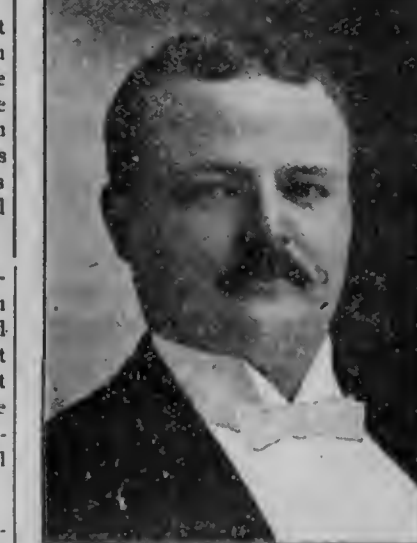

Another kind of embroidery which decorates the black cloth gown is open-work crepe de chine in bands over white cloth or white silk. The pattern is so open that the effect is much more white than black.

Black and white silk embroideries on chiffon and taffeta silks are useful in many ways for trimming, and then there are bands of white silk embroidered in black and white, which can be purchased all ready for use.

The cretonne flowers so much used in applique last season are supplemented now by the flowered panne cut out in the same manner and finished around the edge with a fine cord or some fancy stitch, just as the cretonne flowers were treated.

Open-work stitches are not confined to the thin materials by any means, and we see them on the shaggy zibelines so much worn, joining the seams over silk of the same color, and heading the circular flounces, of which there are two. Blue zibeline in a gray, but rather light shade, prettily illustrates this finish.

One revival coming rapidly into the foreground is moire silk, which finds a profitable field among the long coats. Very swell indeed are the entire costumes of moire silk made with three-quarter coats decorated with the hip pocket flaps, deep cuffs and revers and collar of lace and silk or of embroidery on silk.

BOER COLONEL WINS.
Arthur Lynch Elected to Represent Galway in Parliament.

London dispatches state that Col.
Arthur Lynch's triumphant election to the House of Commons from Galway, succeeding Horace Plunkett, has caused intense chagrin among the Minister-
ialists, who bitterly resent this expression of Irish sympathy with the Boers.
Lynch declares that he intends to take his seat when Parliament meets, his position apparently being that he merely acted as a newspaper correspondent with the Boers.

There was a great celebration in honor
of Lynch's victory in Galway, the entire city being illuminated. The Nationalists paraded in large numbers. Even in Paris, where Col. Lynch is now residing,
the news of his election attracted considerable attention, and several newspapers published his portrait as a Boer Colonel. He said Saturday that he does not expect to be molested when he goes
to England at the opening of Parliament.
He thinks his election significant, as showing that the Irish party is united,
and he has reasons to believe Ireland is on the eve of obtaining a satisfactory
home rule measure. Regarding South Africa, Col. Lynch said he had received information which convinced him that the war would end within three months
by a settlement securing to the Boers
autonomy on the Australian model.

Colonel Arthur Lynch spent the fall of 1900 in the United States lecturing.
He received much attention at that time
in New York City from Irish patriots and friends of the Boer cause. He and the Second Irish Brigade took part in the second engagement at Bladensburg, which
"Tommy Atkins" has nicknamed
"Ell-an-Slaughter," and in an interview
he described use of his war experiences, an incident of that battle.

"Under General Louis Botha we went down to attack the English. I took part of my brigade of 1,500—about fifty men—
on the most advanced kopje, where the English attacked us with rifle fire, supported by three cannon. I ordered my men to another part of the field. We had to pass over a neck where we were
in plain view of the English gunners, about three hundred yards away. I decided to order the men to run the gauntlet singly. In this way we raced over the neck at full speed. Just as fast as each man appeared the English dropped shells with marvellous accuracy. Two horses were killed and one shrapnel
burst right over my head. I felt my gun to make sure that I was alive, but nothing
worse had happened than that I was nearly thrown out of my saddle by the violent spring which my horse had made.
"The fact that I am here speaks volumes for the bad shooting of the English.
I had rather run the gauntlet of a whole regiment of English than of ten Boers."

MADDEN'S OPENING.

The friends of Mike Madden and Tim
Kenney gathered in large numbers last Wednesday evening to celebrate the opening of his new and handsome grocery at Tenth and Walnut streets. Besides the hundreds from this city many came from Indiana, and during the evening all were seated at tables heavily laden with all the good things of the season, which were partaken of with zest, while an orchestra discoursed the popular airs of the day. The entire affair was voted by all present one of the most enjoyable
they had ever attended, and all departed
wishing the genial host uninterrupted success in his new house.

FEAST OF ST. CECILIA.

The feast of St. Cecilia was fittingly observed at St. Cecilia's church Sunday.
The exercises began with solemn high mass in the morning and ended with Festal vespers in the evening, when
Very Rev. Thomas Hayes, of Bowling
Green, preached an impressive sermon.
Large congregations attended both services.

NOW WITH BAT.

John Wahl, well known all over the city, has taken the position held by the late Henry Feldhaus with Bat Fuglein
on Third street, where his friends are calling upon him in numbers.

Yet not especially conspicuous as one of the season's novelties in trimming,
but in the fine cut beads and tiny spangles
it is used. Some of the passementerie
bands are beautifully fine, both in design
and quality, and then there are bands of fine net with edges to match, patterned
with floral designs done in tiny spangles.

The variety of gimps surpasses anything we have ever had before, and this again is owing to the clearer combinations of contrasts. For example, there is a gimp varied by lace and chiffon medallions, the chiffon embroidered in Persian colors or in black and white. The gimp itself is often in flower designs which give it the appearance of embroidery.

The death occurred on Thursday of the Very Rev. William Moloney, Rathkeale.
J. H. Peard, who is so well known in sporting circles, has resigned his position

There is not a single case for trial at the coming winter assizes in Galway
from the county of Galway, a very satisfactory and creditable condition of things.

A pastoral letter from the Most Rev.
Dr. Gaffney with reference to the proposed new Cathedral at Mullingar was read in all the churches of Meath on Sunday.

One of the wildest storms experienced in Ireland for many years prevailed two weeks ago. Great damage was done in all parts of the country, and a number of lives were lost.

At a very largely attended meeting held in New Tipperary, John Dillon, in the course of an important speech,
strongly condemned Horace Plunkett's
candidature for Galway.

At a meeting of the Clonakilly Urban Council some discussion took place on the question of flax-growing in the district, which was said to be particularly suitable for that purpose.

On Sunday William Redmond, M.P.,
accompanied by Alderman Joyce, M. P.
of Limerick, addressed a large meeting
under the auspices of the local branch of the United Irish League at Scariff, County Clare.

A verdict of accidental death was returned in the case of Thomas Cunningham, aged thirty-four, who died on Tuesday as the result of a fall received in the City of Dublin Distillery, Great Brunswick street.

Coroner De Courcy and a Limerick
jury held an inquest on the body of a woman named Esther Corbett, aged sixty, whose body was found in the Shannon the previous evening. The jury found a verdict of accidental drowning.

The inland revenue authorities have threatened to take legal action against the Arklow Harbor Commissioners for the recovery of $100 income tax. The Harbor Commissioners have allowed the matter to stand over until the question of liability is settled.

T. W. Russell, M. P., on Monday night addressed a crowded meeting at Droevock, North Antrim. In opening his speech he said that every successive meeting of the six he had addressed in North Antrim had been more successful than its predecessor.

In the Southern Police Court in Dublin George Brooks was fined $250 or six months' imprisonment for being the oc-
cupier of premises used for the purpose of betting. Stephen Walsh, for assisting in the management of the house, was fined $100 or three months' imprisonment.

At Corofu petty sessions Andy Hehir,
who is notorious for his escapes from Ennis and Limerick prisons and adventures subsequently, though pursued
by the police for three months in Clare,
was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment for failing to observe the conditions of his ticket-of-leave.

The Belfast Coroner held an inquest on the body of Sarah Kearns, whose husband is charged with causing her death.
Medical testimony was to the effect that
death was due to rupture of the spleen.
The jury found accordingly and attached
no blame to any person. It is probable that the accused man will now be discharged.

A shocking burning accident, unhappily involving the death of Mrs. John Foley, occurred at Roslevan, near Ennis.
Her husband had retired for the night,
and when putting out the lamp her
clothing caught fire with the above sad
result, despite all efforts to save her life.
She was forty-five years old and left a young wife.

By the death of P. J. Forde, J. P., Cork has been deprived of a kindly and worthy citizen. The deceased gentleman had been in indifferent health for some time past and recently it became painfully evident that the end was near. The sad event took place at his residence on Friday and the intelligence was received with feelings of genuine regret by his fellow-citizens.

A serious fire broke out at Nenagh
on Saturday evening. A house in River lane, which is close to the Great Southern & Western railway station, took fire and after a short time the adjoining houses
were also in a blaze. The constabulary,
with the assistance of the town people,
rendered efficient service in quelling the conflagration. The property belongs to a Mr. Gleeson and the damage is estimated at $2,500.

A sad fatality occurred within about five miles of Sligo, by which a respectable farmer named Bartle Keaveney lost his life. Deceased was driving home
from Sligo market on a post cart, owned and driven by a man named Michael Conry. At a place midway between Sooney and Glan church, where there is a steep hill with the road unprotected at each side, the horse and cart were precipitated over the side into a deep dyke.
The cart fell on poor Keaveney, who died shortly after being extricated.

William Fitzmaurice, of Ballydonohue
Cottage, Glin, has just received from Rome the pleasing intelligence that his second son, Edmund James, has in addition to securing the gold medal for excellent answering in all subjects obtained
the degree of Bachelor of Theology. This is most creditable for one who is barely twenty years of age. Previous to repairing to the Eternal City this student, who is a nephew of Dr. Fitzmaurice, Lord Bishop of Erie, pursued a successful
course of studies at Louvain and also at St. Prond.

at Legacurry, near Newtownstewart, on Saturday. While two men named Doherty were driving along the road they met a man named Patrick McGlinchy, who was leaning on his umbrella. The latter said he had a weak turn. He then sat down until Doherty was ready to assist him into the cart. In a few minutes, however, McGlinchy was dead, the cause of death being heart disease. He had been in America for forty years and returned to Ireland about seven years ago. The Coroner did not consider an inquest necessary.

An extraordinary outrage is reported
from Palleskenry, about twelve miles west of Limerick. It appears that some person or persons cut open the stomachs
of two beefers the property of a respectable farmer named Thomas Coyne, residing at Ballycane. The alleged outrage
was reported to the police and the place
was visited by County Inspector Hayes,
of Limerick, and District Inspector Morley, of Adare. Coyne is described as in-offensive and industrious, and no motive
can be suggested for the injury to his cattle. The people round Palleskenry repudiate the outrage in what has hitherto been a most peaceable and criminally district.

The death of the Rev. Cors. O'Sullivan,
of Dromariffe, in the diocese of Kerry,
removes a member of one of the oldest and most respected Kerry families and a highly esteemed minister of the church.
He had a striking collegiate career, and during the thirty-three years he spent in the ministry he proved one of the most active priests in the diocese. In every parish to which he was stationed he labored
zealously for the spiritual and temporal welfare of his flock, while works of God commanded all the energies he possessed. Kindly and charitable he was beloved by his people and his clerical
conferrers, and this was amply attested
at his funeral obsequies.

A sensation was caused in Clonmel by the suicide of a soldier named John Burke, of the Leinster regiment. It appears Burke, who was a powerful man,
recently returned from South Africa and went on leave to his native place, Carr-rick, in his full war-paint. He was returning to Birt from Carrick on Tuesday, for a ticket to Thurles was found in his possession. At Clonmel station he went into the closet, and evidently planned his own self-destruction in a most deliberate manner, for he took the putties from his legs, tied them together
in a long rope, made a firm noose round
his neck, and affixing the other end overhead, launched himself into eternity. A porter entering the closet early next morning was horrified to find the body
of the unfortunate man suspended inside.
He raised the alarm. The body was cut down and handed over to the police,
who conveyed it to the morgue. It is said that Burke had over-stayed his leave
by five days.

FEARED DISGRACE.

Short In His Accounts Stuart
Young Commits Suicide.

The citizens of Louisville were shocked
Wednesday afternoon when it was rumored that Stuart Young, ex-City Treasurer, was short in his accounts, and the news that he had committed suicide
latter sent a thrill of horror all over the city. For some days previous he had avoided making the transfer of his office
to his successor, and it is believed that the fact of his defalcation becoming known through the newspapers drove him to the terrible deed. Shortly after 7 o'clock
his dead body was found on Nelson
street, near the river, where he had shot himself through the head. The amount of his defalcation is not yet known, but it is feared it will reach $5,000.

An Alabama man climbed to the top of a tree this week and committed suicide
by taking poison.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

Only one division meets the coming week.

Division 3 meets Monday night at Nelligan's Hall Nineteenth and Portland avenue.

The members of both degree teams are urged to meet at Hibernian Hall tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Providence Hibernian enthusiasts are said to be actively advocating the formation of a new division in the North End.

Officer Tom Fitzgibbons and James
Furey added greatly to the pleasure of Tuesday night's meeting by their singing.

Capt. Jerry Hallahan was in the city
Wednesday evening, and with Bob Mitchell attended the meeting of Division 4.

Before the close of the year Division 2
of Manchester expects to have over 200
members, making it one of the strongest in New Hampshire.

The sympathy of every Hibernian in Louisville goes out to James Wolf, of Division 4, who this week sustained the loss of his most estimable wife.

The Hibernians gave the grandest and most successful ball that ever took place in Pawtucket on Thanksgiving eve. Mayor
Fitzgerald was Chairman of the committee that made the arrangements.

All members of the order who can do
so should accompany the degree teams
to Jeffersonville next Tuesday night.
Those who go will meet at Fourteenth
and Main and take the 7:30 train.

County President Keenan was somewhat disappointed that there was not a larger attendance Tuesday night, as the entertainment given by Division 1 was one that should have filled even the Auditorium.

There will be a big initiation by Division 1 in Jeffersonville next Tuesday night, and all who attend from Louisville
will have a jolly good time, as special preparations are being made for their entertainment.

Providence Hibernians are jubilant over the success of Division 18, which closed its charter list Sunday. The four degrees will be conferred in December, and visitors will be present from all the local divisions and Fall River.

John E. Browne, the Twelfth-street
grocer, disappointed many Tuesday night. There was a general desire to hear him play his repertoire of Irish airs upon his flute, but he kept it well concealed till all but a few departed. When it was brought forth there were several horns
and jigs danced by Maurice Healy.

The lecture delivered Tuesday night by Hon. Matt O'Doherty was the most interesting as well as instructive ever heard in Hibernian Hall. For two hours
he held his hearers spellbound, and every one would have enjoyed listening to him
for two hours longer. His words about Ireland were inspiring and elicited the heartiest applause, but equally so were
his descriptions of the famous places visited on the continent. Those who failed to hear him missed a treat that will not be repeated for many a day.

EXPIRED SUDDENLY.

Thomas Bannon, a well known young man of the West End, expired suddenly Tuesday at the home of his parents, Thirty-fourth and Rudd avenue. For a few days he had been complaining, but
was thought to be getting better, and his death was a severe shock to his many friends. His funeral took place Thursday morning from the Church of Our Lady in Portland, and was very largely attended.

SERIOUS INJURY.

John Kearns, employed in the L. & N.
shops, met with a serious accident Tuesday. While at work his right hand was caught in the machinery, resulting in the loss of the forefinger. Dr. Griffiths dressed the injured member. It will be some time before he can return to work.

CARPENTERS.

The Louisville carpenters voted unanimously this week for Peter J. McGuire,
of Philadelphia, their National Secretary.
His interests here were ably cared for by Thomas Reagan.

An eccentricity in millinery is the manner in which wings are used, all previous arrangements being reversed. The points
now turn down and lie flat instead of standing perky upright or turn toward
the front or tucked under the brim, lying on the hair, or any other way that never was seen before.

The hats of the season are not only
light as to material and finish, but are so as to weight, and for the first time in some years the winter chapeau is a thing
to be borne with comfort and convenience. There is not a multiplicity or adornment. If the hat looks well and is becoming with little trimming, then it is adopted.

"He has told me he loved me," said
the fair girl confidently, "but I don't know whether to marry him or not."
"Don't you think he tells the truth?"
"I am sure he does his best to tell the truth. But, you see, he works in the weather bureau at Washington."

The giddy tourist from London was trying to take a medium-sized rise out of Pat.

"Pat," said he, "what is the meaning of the word nothing?"
"Sure I can't explain it, but ye'll find
it in the place where yer brains ought to be!"

Sardines broiled in a chafing dish are nice for Sunday night suppers. Use just enough of the oil in the box to cover the bottom of the dish and keep the fish from sticking. When they are browned on both sides, sprinkle liberally with lemon juice and serve hot.

FATHER CROWLEY

Apologizes to Cardinal Martinelli and Archbishop Feehan.

Announcement was made Thursday by Thomas Moran, attorney for Archbishop Feehan, of Chicago, that the sentence of excommunication pronounced against Father Jeremiah J. Crowley would be recalled within a few days. This is expected to put an end to the case against the deposed priest, and the injunction proceedings begun against him to prevent his worship in the Cathedral of the Holy Name will be withdrawn. Attorney
Moran said:

"Some days ago Father Crowley addressed a communication to His Eminence Cardinal Martinelli. This led to a further consideration of the matter by the Cardinal, with the result that Father
Crowley again addressed His Eminence,
as follows:

"Your Eminence: To save the honor
of our beloved church and to repair the scandal I may have given to our faithful Catholic people, I sincerely regret whatever I may have said disrespectful to Your Eminence and to the Most Reverend Archbishop of Chicago, and I also retract anything that I may have either
said or written which could not be approved by the Catholic Church."

"JEREMIAH CROWLEY."
"The Cardinal thereupon further advised with the Archbishop, and as soon as the details are attended to, which will be within a day or two, the sentence of excommunication which was pronounced against Father Crowley will be recalled."

THEATRICALS.

"Lost in the Desert," which comes to the Avenue next week, is a melodrama,
with startling effects, in four acts, by Owen Davis. The piece is lavishly staged and produced under the personal direction of the author, which means that a careful and praiseworthy performance is the result. The first scene at the close of the first act is one of the most thrilling
ever witnessed on the local stage and the tableau that follows is very pretty and well conceived.

The famous "Rough Riders," with one of the most attractive bills of the season,
will be next week's offering at the Buckingham. With this gigantic burlesque company will appear thirty-five bright stars of the vaudeville stage, headed by dainty Elsie Knapp and Robert Mack,
the celebrated Gus and Maude Solikie, George Scanlon and Pearl Stevens, the Major Sisters, all presenting features
new to the new to the local stage. With the Rough Riders come Lutes brothers, Clarence and William, the twentieth century
marvels, this being their first appearance
here, and the harmony and mirth-provoking Bijou Comedy Four. Besides the splendid olio there will be presented two hilarious burlesques, "A Summer Rehearsal" and "The Tally Ho Club."

An excellent show is assured the Temple's patrons next week, when the Mem-fert Stock Company will present Charles Dickson's comedy drama, "Three Lu-cogs." This is one of the most highly amusing plays ever written and has
delighted thousands of people everywhere
the production has been seen. Presented in this city for the first time, it should prove an excellent drawing card
at popular prices. The vaudeville bill
for the week is an unusually strong one,
and will be in the hands of Klitty Mitchell, a star comedienne known as
"the lady graceful," and the Budd brothers,
clown acrobats, who are said to be decidedly clever. Last week the Temple was crowded daily, and the excellent performance arranged for next week
should call into use the standing-room
sign.

EGGS OF INSECTS AND INSECTICIDES.
The substances used to kill various
insects do not, as a rule, destroy the eggs.
There is, however, no doubt that the insects hatched from eggs which have come in contact with a strong insecticide
have but little vitality. Use the insecticide a second time from three to six days
after the first treatment.

STAMPED EGGS.
This is an exceedingly nice way to cook an egg for an invalid or a small child. Drop a rather thick tepid into a kettle of boiling water and let it remain until thoroughly heated. Take it out with a skimmer and break into it at once a perfectly fresh egg. Cover it over

Jerry Corbett's Long Suffering and Death From Consumption.

Funeral the Largest Seen in the Capital City For Years.

Pat Flehile and Miss Clara Belle Dean United in Marriage.

ELKS' MEMORIAL SERVICES SUNDAY

[Special Correspondence of the Kentucky Irish American.]

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 28.—On Sunday morning last about 9:30 o'clock the spirit of Jerry Corbett winged its flight to its last eternal reward in the great beyond. For weeks and months Mr. Corbett has lain upon a sick bed a patient and uncomplaining sufferer, hearing with meekness and humility the bitter cross placed upon him. He was a good, practical Catholic, an earnest and hard working member of the Young Men's Institute, Catholic Knights of America and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, a kind, affectionate and loving father, and until a little less than two years ago, when death took from him his loving and beloved wife, a devoted husband. Mr. Corbett was a comparatively young man at the time of his death, being in his forty-first year, and up to a couple of years ago was as strong and healthful as it was possible to be. At that time the dread disease consumption placed its mark upon him and he had been gradually getting worse ever since. The funeral took place from the Church of the Good Shepherd on Tuesday morning last and was one of the largest seen in Frankfort in many days. The members of the Young Men's Institute and the Catholic Knights of America turned out in large numbers to pay a last sad tribute to their friend and brother. A large number of beautiful floral designs were sent and among the number was a beautiful cross of Mareschal roses banded with ferns and evergreens standing three feet high, which was sent by the Young Ladies' Auxiliary to the Young Men's Institute. Lambert Young Council, of which the deceased was an earnest member for a number of years, sent one of the prettiest floral designs ever seen in the city, representing the emblem of the order, with the motto "Pro Deo Pro Patria," and "V. M. I. No. 101," formed out of unguifluous white and red roses and violets, banded with evergreens and ferns, standing four and a half feet. The local branch Catholic Knights of America also sent a beautiful design, as also did numerous personal friends. A true and noble son of Erin, Jerry Corbett numbered his friends by his acquaintances, and beneath a rough exterior there beat as noble and gentle a heart as ever pulsed in a human breast. Always ready to alleviate the pain and suffering and troubles of others, it is no wonder that he was such a patient sufferer himself and that he should have passed to his last eternal reward with a smile upon his lips. The writer had known him for many years and always found him the same plain, unassuming gentleman that he was. Quiet and unostentatious, he was often perhaps misunderstood. To the sorrowing son and daughter and brother and sister their friends extend sincere sympathy. May his soul have eternal rest.

The marriage of Pat Flehile, formerly of this city but now of Hamilton, Ohio, and Miss Clara Belle Dean, of this city, took place on Tuesday last in the parlor of the Good Shepherd rectory, the Rev. Father Major officiating. Edward Hunt, of this city, and Miss M. Flehile, of Covington, sister of the groom, were the attendants. The groom holds a responsible position with the Hamilton Tiling Company, and was exceedingly popular when a resident of Frankfort, while the bride is one of Frankfort's most charming girls. Their many friends extend congratulations. The happy couple left immediately for Hamilton, their future home.

Owing to the death of Jerry Corbett the eucharist and dance which was to have been given by the Young Men's Institute on Thanksgiving was postponed until December 26. Mr. Corbett was a highly esteemed member of Council 161, and in respect to his memory no entertainment of any kind will be given for a period of thirty days.

The forty hours' devotion which took place at the Church of the Good Shepherd, this city, last week was the most successful one in years. Father Major, the pastor, was assisted by two learned and eloquent Passionist priests.

The Elks' memorial services at the Capital Opera House on Sunday afternoon promise to be very interesting. Several noted speakers from Lexington and Louisville will be here for the occasion, and an excellent musical programme under the management of Prof. Wayland Graham will be rendered by the various church choirs. The Hon. Roger Clay, of Lexington, and ex-Gov. W. O. Bradley, of Louisville, will probably be here and deliver addresses.

Miss Wills, of Winchester, and Miss Rosa McCarthy, of Lexington, arrived on Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. John R. Sower.

Mrs. Bryan and niece, of Huntington, W. Va., have been the delightful guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Power during the past week.

Miss Jane Newman, of Louisville, spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. N. Sullivan.

On Wednesday last John Callahan died at the home of his father in this city, after an illness of less than a week. Mr. Callahan was perhaps one of the best known young men in Frankfort, having been baggage master at the L. & N. depot in this city for several years. A host of friends extend to his sorrowing parents and sisters their sincere sympathy in their sad affliction. STANDS BY MINERS.

The Central Labor Union Denounces Judges Evans and Hall.

The Central Labor Union met in regular session at Beck's Hall last Sunday afternoon. The knowledge that F. J. O'Hara, of New Jersey, representing the United Hatters of America, and Secretary White, of the United Garment Workers, were in the city and would address the delegates, and also that resolutions declaring the attitude of the Louisville wage earners toward the mine workers, had the effect of bringing out a large number of delegates. Delegates were admitted from the Brotherhood of Book Binders, Amalgamated Steel and Metal Workers, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and United Garment Workers.

Henry Carfield reported the proceedings of the State Federation of Labor. A number of communications were received and referred and acknowledgements of financial assistance rendered the German printers of Philadelphia, the iron and steel workers and the Brotherhood of Blacksmiths. The Board of Directors made their semi-annual report, the books being found correct and about $400 in the treasury.

Resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted disapproving of the action of Judges Evans and Hall for enjoining the union miners of Hopkins county and forcing them to leave the district in which they resided. Another resolution that gave rise to considerable debate called for the employment of only union labor on all city contracts. Action was deferred till the December meeting, when nominations will be made for officers for next year.

Messrs. O'Hara and White made strong pleas for the recognition of the labels of the respective organizations, and asked the delegates to urge members of their unions to look for and secure the label when purchasing hats or clothing. The remarks of both were given close attention.

Carl Bolander, delegate to the American Federation of Labor, which meets at Scranton next month, will present the demands of the central body, among them being the request for a permanent State organizer for Kentucky.

BROTHERHOOD OF ENGINEERS.

The annual ball and reception of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Division 165, will take place next Tuesday evening at Liederkranz Hall, Sixth and Walnut streets, and a pleasant time is assured all who attend. As the object of the Brotherhood of Engineers is a worthy one, and they will be ably assisted by the Ladies' Auxiliary, their ball should be liberally patronized. The gentlemen having the affair in charge are Chairman A. Phillips, M. J. Carroll, T. A. Murray, H. E. Smith, Frank Knoedler, B. F. Cunningham, J. Van Arsdale and E. Hardaway. Besides assisting in receiving the guests the ladies of the auxiliary will serve the refreshments. Devotees of terpsichore will find this among the most select halls given this year.

South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Exposition.

The above Exposition, one of the greatest ever held in the South, will open December 1, 1901, and continue until June 1, 1902. Very attractive rates have been arranged from all points to Charleston, and the routes via the Southern Railway, with its own rails the entire distance, are particularly convenient; and any agent that line will give full information and application.

HENDERSON.

Mild Weather Prevails and the Building Operations Still Continue.

Would Inaugurate Innocent Amusements For the Young People.

Noble Work That Has Been Done by the Good Sisters.

A WORD ABOUT CHURCH SOCIETIES

[Special Letter to the Kentucky Irish American.]

HENDERSON, Nov. 25.—The very mild weather which has succeeded the cold spell enabled work to continue out doors and many new buildings have lately gone up here, including a commodious union depot for the three passenger trains to run into. Convenient modern appliances are in use.

A quiet wedding occurred at the priest's house last Tuesday, the bride being Miss Towler and the groom a Mr. Ahell.

Two converts, lately brides, were received into the church last week, having previously been instructed by the reverend father.

The choir service for last Sunday was unusually good. The organist rendered the solo, "O Salutaris," in opera style, which made a pleasant change and disclosed a well trained voice.

Our church societies are "few and far between," as the saying goes, as interest seems to lag and the pastor is using utmost persuasion and energy to revive life in the select circles. The cause must lie in the fact of our late pastor's bad health, he being much of the time away for treatment and the diversity of assistants who were here and there and changed often. Our young people need some source of amusement of a harmless kind. The Sodality is well attended, but this is hardly in the line of social fun, which is life, light and air for the young of both sexes. They need congenial companionship interspersed with conversation, music and fun such as they will have and enjoy if occasion presents, but there seems to be an utter indifference among those who could aid them, as if the young were dependent on their own exertions and of no interest to older heads.

The Catholic elements of society here, while the best both religiously and financially, are engaged in active business pursuits, giving time no chance to hang heavily. Still the majority are reaching the period called maidens and bachelors. This, to my mind, is encouraged more by lack of pleasant association, and why can not some man and wife who have time and money and charity, who realize this need, make a noble start and help these youth in this need by proposing, planning and executing some high class entertainment which will result in good to all and will bring blessings on the heads of the clever benefactors. The Sisters' school is doing good work, as usual, in its own quiet way, with four brave and noble hearts in control who are efficient, persevering, courageous and patient in the extreme. Sister Charlotte, the Superior, has worked faithfully in the school here for quite twenty-six years under most trying conditions, but with hope and trust in God for the strength of body and mind to do good work in His cause of training young minds. Many of these are advancing in years and have lucrative employment in the leading business interests of the city and nothing is preferred against them, proving that the early and good impressions received at the hands of the Sisters are lasting and effective for good. Our church officers are men of qualification and trust whom she instructed, and the same Father of Light who called away their helper, Father Tierney, will aid them by other help just as good and their work will advance upward and onward and receive the blessings of God in the end.

Thanksgiving will soon be here with turkey and good things to tickle the palate, and let us give thanks to God for His favors which we of modern times hardly appreciate properly, growing up so used to good gifts we look for them more as something which is commonplace and due us by merit of our daily labor and by an abundance we do not learn a lesson of denial and thoughtfulness, but otherwise make extravagant use of until we cease to feel thankful as Christians ought.

The Kentucky Irish American is being introduced into homes here by degrees, and all who have seen a copy speak encouragingly and subscribers are promised already.

YOUNG LADIES' BAZAR.

The young ladies of Holy Trinity church will give a bazar on Monday and Tuesday nights at Holy Trinity Hall, Market and Seventh streets, New Albany. The proceeds will be devoted to improvements of the church, which next year celebrates its jubilee.

ANNIVERSARY OF CONSECRATION.

The parishioners of St. John's church, Clay and Walnut streets, celebrated the forty-first anniversary of its consecration with brilliant and impressive services. Father Bax, the venerable pastor, who has served the longest of any priest in this diocese, was the celebrant of the high mass. Father Rock of the Cathedral, preached the sermon, which was of a congratulatory and highly interesting historical character. There was a very large attendance at the happy services. The Ladies of the congregation will open a bazar in the school hall Monday night, for which great preparations have been made.
